Hello world!

written by Mert SARICA | 19 November 2009

Welcome to MertPress. This is my first post. You cannot edit or delete it, just enjoy my blogging :)

For a long time, I’ve been pondering whether or not to have a blog, but I couldn’t refuse Huzeyfe’s gesture (I owe him a coffee), so I’ve taken my place here to share my experiences in information security (there are some legendary stories if you only knew, but sharing them ethically isn’t quite possible). Some believe that sharing knowledge will make it grow, while others believe that knowledge is power and will diminish when shared. I used to believe in the former for years. It wasn’t until I reached saturation (it seems like I have, considering I have a blog :)) that I started believing in sharing. Now, whenever I have the time, I will share many life and work adventures with you here. Until we meet again…