

My Blog is 14 Years Old :)

written by Mert SARICA | 19 November 2023

It's hard to believe that 14 years have come and gone, and today, I'm writing this. My interest in cybersecurity, which began as a hobby when I was 13 or 14 years old and later turned into a profession, continues with the same passion I had on the first day, even though I'm much older now. :)

As someone who has been sharing what I've read and learned without keeping it to myself for 14 years, with the motto "Knowledge is power and grows as it is shared," I want to express my heartfelt gratitude to all of you who have never left me alone on this long journey. Your positive feedback and constructive criticisms have always kept my motivation high, encouraging me to conduct more security research and write more.

Here's to many more healthy, happy, and successful years together!